Conforms to American Aspirations, Too, He Declares at A. P. Dinner.

DISMISSES LEAGUE ISSUE

Participation by U. S. Would Not Be Entry Into League in Any Manner, He Emphasizes; Keeping Faith Necessary for Party to Endure.

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 24.—Participation by the United States in the world court as proposed by the Administration, President Harding today declared at the annual luncheon of members of the Associated Press, would be "in harmony with party platform pledges, constitutional principles and American aspirations" and would not be an entry into the League of Nations by the side door, the back door or no cellar door.

"Excessive friends" of the league, in president declared, have belittled the situation by an unwarranted assumption that the proposal is a vote toward membership in the league, while, he added, the respectable opponents of the league have belittled the question with the assumption that endorsement with troops would automatically follow. The fear of endorsement is the present disquiet with the blunt declaration that if the Senate were to reject the proposal, it would thereby prevent from becoming effective.

Reiterating his conviction that the United States could participate in the world court without assuming the obligations which its opponents point out, President Harding reviewed the League of Nations since 1914, of which he pointed out spokes for world court of arbitral justice and led.

"I believe in keeping the faith. If political parties do not mean what they say and candidates do not mean what they say, then our form of government is based on fraud and must come to an end."

But the President left no doubt at his luncheon of moving toward the League of Nations by his support of the world court.

"In compliance with its pledges," said Mr. Harding, "the Administration has not only kept its word but has also been able to keep its word."

Mr. Harding made a point of saying that he did not consider the world court question as a part of the party platform, but that it was a part of the party platform.

YORK CITY BANK CLOSED; $800,000 SHORTAGE IN FUNDS

State Banking Department Takes Charge of Institutions' Affairs.

ARRESTS ARE EXPECTED

By Associated Press.
YORK, April 24.—The state banking commissioner has taken over the business and property of the City Bank, one of York's largest institutions. The bank was closed today. A crowd of excited depositors, many of them women, assembled about the doors seeking an explanation as to the reason for closing.

The last report of the bank's condition contained this statement:

Capital stock, paid in cash, $250,000; surplus, $200,000; undivided profits, $72,218.

The bank was established in 1897. Geoffrey P. York is its president and Thomas H. Baird is its cashier.

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of Thomas H. Baird, cashier, and W. H. Hall, assistant cashier. Baird could not be found at his home. His wife said he had gone away for the day.

HARRISBURG, April 24.—Examiners of the State Banking Department, who yesterday began an investigation of the affairs of the City Bank of York which resulted in the state banking commissioner taking over the institution today reported to Commissioner Peter Cameron that they had found indications of a shortage of $800,000.

R. P. Ferguson, a state banking examiner, was sent to York yesterday by Commissioner Cameron said today he discovered the alleged shortage and now is in charge of the bank. The commissioner declared information would be made against the treasurer of the bank.

"This case should be a warning as to the policy the department has adopted where a shortage is found," Commissioner Cameron said. "As information will be made at once against any officials involved in such cases. Examiners are being trained to look for manipulations that may be used to hide shortages."

Council Asked to Exonerate Catholic Properties of Taxes

City Council Monday evening deferred action on a petition for exoneration of Madaus Hall, the Polish convent in Seventh street, West Side, and the convent of the Immaculate Conception Church. A resolution that the petition be "received and placed on file" was adopted.

The matter of Madaus Hall has been before Council for several weeks. On the advice of the collector it was recently put up to Tax Collector A. O. Hyster. The collector reported to Council last night that the trustees of the three properties had refused to pay, claiming exoneration under the law. The collector, therefore, asked that Council authorize him to strike the amounts from the records. It is probable the matter will be brought up again at the next meeting.

Federal Court Rules Against Reduced Mileage

By Associated Press.
BOSTON, April 24.—A permanent injunction restraining the Interstate Commerce Commission from carrying out its recent order providing for the sale of non-transferable and interchangeable mileage tickets at a 20 per cent price reduction was issued Monday in federal court.

The injunction was issued after a hearing on petition of 60 eastern roads opposed to the ruling.

INSURANCE MEN GATHER MAY 17 AT COUNTRY CLUB

Business Session of County Federation to Be Followed By Dinner.

The first annual convention since the organization meeting in Uniontown a year ago will be held on May 17 by the Fayette county branch of the Insurance Federation of Pennsylvania. The meeting will be held at the Pleasant Valley Country Club and will be followed by a dinner at that place. Committees of local insurance men will be in charge.

At a meeting held Monday plans for the convention were made. Invitations will be issued to men writing all lines of insurance regardless of whether they are members of the organization or not. It is expected the convention will aid in stimulating interest and effect an increase in the membership of the county branch. At present there are 211 members in the county.

Joseph J. Thompson, with offices in the Second National Bank Building, is the general chairman. J. Donald Porter is in charge of making arrangements for the speakers. Several are being communicated with at present and it is expected two will be here.

James Laughlin is in charge of the plans for the dinner and T. S. Barnes and J. J. Thompson will send out the invitations and provide transportation for insurance men who come here on street cars. All local insurance men compose a reception committee.

There will be no election of officers at the session, those in office at present holding over until the regular convention date in January. R. S. McCrum of Uniontown is president of the county branch. The session will be in the afternoon only, followed by the dinner.

The county branch convention is being held to oppose the state of Pennsylvania going into the insurance business; to promote good insurance laws; to educate the public on the needs of insurance coverage in its various forms; to inform the insurance fraternity on matters of interest to them; to cooperate with other insurance and business organizations for the general good of the business and the state; to advance the best interests of insurance in all legitimate ways.

RESTRICTED IMMIGRATION GARY'S PLAN

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 24.—Judge Herbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, denied Monday that he was in favor of restricted immigration.

"On the contrary," he said in a statement to newspaper men, "I do not think our immigration laws should be so restrictive that they would prevent immigration that could be reasonably considered as beneficial to domestic labor of any kind, to our government or our public welfare."

"If the public should believe generally that I favor an unlimited immigration, it might be harmful to the steel industry, to the masses of workers and to the general public."

The reason for his statement, he said, was that some newspapers had quoted in editorials that he had expressed an opinion in favor of unrestricted immigration at the stockholders' meeting of the United States Steel Corporation last week. There was no justification for the assertion that such a conclusion was based on a misconception resulting from a lack of knowledge as to exactly what he said at that time.

"I have never entertained nor do I now entertain the opinion that there should be no restriction in regard to immigration laws," he emphasized.

"Crime Trust" Formed in Philadelphia to Defend Bandits Caught in Dragnet

By Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—Banditry is becoming an lucrative in Philadelphia that a "crime trust" for the protection of criminals has been organized. Superintendent of Police William Mills said today. Twelve bands of hold-up men, eight of them composed of New York and Baltimore crooks, are operating, he said.

"By banding together," said Mills, "and adding each other in face of trouble by obtaining lawyers and advancing funds the criminal element has strengthened its position not only in this city but in every large city of the country. The ring leaders are old offenders and have a wider knowledge of the law than many policemen. Criminals of a band that has made substantial hands put up money for the law for unate fellow bandits who are caught."

More than 50 bandits were arrested over the week-end and Mills said the campaign to drive them from the city would be continued. Three hundred extra policemen have been placed on duty.

SNYDER STREET PROJECT MAY BE INDEFINITELY OFF

Owners of Property Fail to Co-Operate With Council in Fixing Line.

DR. SHERRICK PROTESTS

The next move in the proposed improvement of Snyder street is up to the people of that section of the city. It was indicated at a meeting of Council Monday evening at which it was virtually decided to drop the improvement unless the people are willing to co-operate.

The difficulty in proceeding with the sewer and paving of Snyder street lies in the discovery that the east side line comes close up to the homes of several and the indignation of the owners to sign releases. Only one, according to the report made to Council, was willing to sign a release. He was William H. Matetia.

Council therefore took the view that unless the people affected show a desire for the improvement it will be incumbent on Council to expend the money for sewers and improvements elsewhere.

The mayor and his fellow members of Council came in for severe criticism by Dr. F. N. Sherrick, who declared it to be an outrage that under the terms of the contract for the paving of Cottage avenue between Apple and Fayette streets he should be compelled to pay $750 as his share of the cost of the improvement. Dr. Sherrick said he had 165 feet frontage on the street and that he would be assessed this amount for a strip that long and 100 feet wide. "This is a clean out of the pale of economy," the doctor declared. "I want to express my opinion that Council is not taking care of the money that is paid in the price I will have to pay for an ordinance. I leave it to any one, if I go to buy anything and it is too high to do not buy. That's the way Council should do. I want to be recorded as expressing my disapproval of this action."

Members of Council explained that bids for the improvement had been asked in the regular way, through the medium of the press, and that it was the privilege of the doctor to appear when the bids were opened to determine if the cost was excessive. This he had not done. Dr. Sherrick said he did not know what the cost would be until he read in The Courier the day after the meeting of the awarding of the contract. He said he then began to figure and at once filed a protest with Councilman B. L. Berg.

Spokesmen for Council also held that the cost of the improvement was not excessive in view of the high prices of materials and wages that must be paid, which, it was pointed out, are at or near war-time levels.

Council decided to view a strip in East Park where C. P. Bishop and J. L. Lay have asked for grade that will require excavation of 2,000 cubic yards of earth before any action is taken. They will meet for this purpose Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

The purchasing agent was instructed to secure bids on the removal of the interior of the West Side police station to determine the cost of converting it into a room for storing of the fire trucks. Bids had been received for building of an addition but Council wanted figures on the interior project before opening these.

PINCHOT PLEADED WITH TERMINATION OF KEPHART CASE

HARRISBURG, April 24.—Governor Gifford Pinchot praised Auditor General Lewis' work in the audit of the State Treasury and called for the retirement of the former treasurer from office in a statement issued last night commenting on the result in court today.

"The Kephart decision is a complete victory for Auditor General Lewis and the investigation he made of the affairs of the former state treasurer," said the Governor. "The State wins equally for Mr. Kephart has been declared guilty in every point in the indictments. I trust this means, as it should, his immediate separation from the public service."

Mr. Kephart still is in the State's service as deputy treasurer.

Which asked as to the continuance of Mr. Kephart as deputy treasurer, State Treasurer Charles A. Snyder said:

"Kephart resigned to me back in September, I think it was. But as I don't believe it a wise thing to act hastily in matters of this kind it is still in my hands."

Mr. Snyder was then asked what he planned to do and replied: "I am still considering the matter."

"The fine was the largest ever imposed in Dauphin county. In the Capitol conspiracy case the fines were $500 each. President Judge W. N. Harpoot, who pronounced the sentence, said after consultation with his colleagues it had been determined to make the fine $3,000 in the 'blanket indictment' as the basis."

Investing Sinking Fund in Liberty Bonds Proposed

Investment of the sinking fund in the 1908 refunding bond issue of $17,500, which now amounts to $26,000, in Liberty bonds was proposed in Council meeting Monday evening by C. M. Stone, superintendent of accounts and finance. The fund is now invested in three per cent interest, Mr. Stone said. By investing in Liberty bonds this could be increased, he said.

Under the terms of the sale of the bonds are not redeemable until the expiration of the 25-year period, in 1933.

Before taking any steps to re-invest the money in Liberty bonds it was suggested an effort be made to purchase the city bonds. The belief was expressed that the holders would be willing to sell them to the city and invest in bonds paying higher rates of interest. An effort is to be made to trace them.

The party was held at the Miller home and was a complete surprise to Mr. Miller. Pictures were taken for about 150 persons. This was followed by the presentation of a beautiful watch and chain to Mr. Miller and a pearl necklace to Mrs. Miller by Edward Dunlap of East Liberty as a farewell gift from the employees at Fort Hill. It is held by the employees that no one has ever served in the capacity of mine foreman at Fort Hill any more faithfully or successfully than Mr. Miller.

WHAT WILL IT PROFIT US?

It is scarcely to be hoped that President Harding and Secretary of Labor Davis will not yield to the importunities to let down the immigration bars in response to the plea that is being made in some quarters about a shortage of labor. If the president is persuaded to grant permission to bring in skilled artisans, like potters for iron furnaces and pottery workers under contract, other industries can with the same show of reason ask for exceptions in other classes of workers, and the restrictions now applying to immigration virtually be annulled.

It is no doubt true that more men could be employed in certain industries than at present are engaged. On the other hand there are industries like coal mining, which have more men than can be given employment. What is needed more than throwing open the gates to flood the country with workers, is to effect a better distribution of those here. Immigration will not settle this problem by bringing in more aliens.

If in order to make the present prosperity in industry still greater an influx of workers and non-workers is permitted, their very presence will operate to bring prosperity to an end, as Secretary Davis has himself conceded. It is a well-known fact that during the winter months the number of idle men runs into the millions, notwithstanding unemployment may be reduced to the minimum during the summer months. Do we want to insure ourselves against a more serious artificial labor shortage for six months by maintaining a surplus in idleness during the remainder of the year?

Most of the people think not and for good reasons, chief of which are that they firmly believe that unrestricted immigration has already been one of the chief causes of the current and disregard of the law now so prevalent, and that the further admission of those who would remain aliens in citizenship, thought and language will be increasingly harmful to the nation's best interests. "We have found," says the Philadelphia Ledger, "the melting pot has not been melting, that we have instead a Great American Stew, a sort of racial goulash."

Because of this consideration instead of an immigration of race native Americans will not agree with Judge Gary that the laws restricting immigration "are the worst thing that ever happened to this country economically." The worst thing is that we did not begin 20 or 30 years before we did to apply regulations that would have kept out thousands of ignorant and unsatisfactory peoples from Europe, and that we have been more concerned in getting rich quick than we have been in inspiring and developing the highest ideals of citizenship, and making every alien a citizen or an early passenger back to Europe.

That there is an abundance of labor in Europe is due to the very fact that few of the countries over there have made a serious effort to get their people to work since the war. Further, Europe is expecting, and by all the arts it can employ is planning, to have the United States come over and give aid of every kind, chiefly good American money, to carry on reconstruction, instead of backing down to the job herself. Closely associated to this obsession is the hope that the United States— which we have advertised the world around as the "Land of Opportunity" and the "Home of the Oppressed of Every Nation"—will soon open its doors as wide as they were before any restrictions were placed on immigration and afford all Europe, Asia and the Isles of the Sea the privilege of dumping their undesirable on our shores without limit.

The South did not hold out its hands and pitifully beg any part of the world to come to its aid in reconstructing its waste industries and plantations after the close of the War Between the States. The followers of Lee went to work and by their energy the application brought their land back to production, rebuilt their factories and brought about a greater era of prosperity and greater diversity of activities than their former fair land had even known. If they had waited for the North, or for Great Britain or any other country, as apparently all Europe is waiting for the United States, to parcel out to the South we might have changed but little from its decadent and apathetic helplessness following the war as compared with the marvelous advancement made in its industry, commerce and wealth during the last half century. And this the South has done by its own and northern labor, not by importations from Europe. Europe has use for all its people and should put them to work as the South did after it had been scourged by war. We have work for our laborers and artisans and enough of them to do it. Why, then, should we increase still more the variety and quantities of the ingredients in the "Great American Stew" unless we are consumed by the unholy ambition to try to do all the business of the world?

What will it profit us to achieve that end if in the process we lose our nation's soul? That is a thought which should seriously be pondered by those who regard restrictions on periodical business booms as a great or even than limitations upon the number and character of our immigrants.

Uniontown's experience with the speedy way naturally qualifies the second city of Fayette as a promoter of a non-stop, long distance dance contest.

A Preacher Who Believes In Advertising

Newspaperdom

Rev. B. V. Stevens, pastor of the First Christian Church, of Eugene, Oregon, advertises and pays for his advertising, and has built up a wonderful regular attendance. This is what he has to say on the subject of church advertising:

"I was taking the pastorate of a badly divided, discouraged and dying church. They were heavily in debt and had lost all hope of ever coming out of what seemed to them an utterly hopeless condition. One of the first things I asked of that church was the privilege of expending a certain sum of money for advertising. True, it was money they did not have, nor did it seem possible for them to get the money to spend in this way. I was repeatedly refused the appropriation, until I promised them that if they would let me experiment for a period of three months, and if after that experiment they found that it had not been successful, I would personally pay the entire bill. You can well imagine the result that came, for by the close of the three months not only had the advertising paid for itself several times, but the church had been filled with interested people, and the years of prosperity for that church had begun."

"The strange part of this matter of advertising to me is, that there should be an objection to it, when we remember that the church has been advertising practically during all its history. Church bells, tower chimneys, steeples, and physical equipment were the methods of advertising in the past, and many who have accepted these ancient methods without a word, criticize the modern plans of church publicity."

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest.

PERMANENCY
Tulips red and yellow, nodding gayly round the door,
The heavy clustered hyacinths perfume
the air once more.
How permanent is springtime, for the
Is the loveliness of springtime of ten thousand years ago.

All things which man has builded have their hour and pass away.
The wind of fashion whistles them and they fall into decay.
But the blossoms in the orchards and the tulips red and gold
Were lovely things and graceful long before the world was old.

It was like this in the springtime long before the Christ was born.
They saw the self-same beauty in a lovely April morn.
They heard the robin singing as he sings to you and me
And each brook was written alive as it journeyed to the sea.

The world may seem forged us, when men than we have seen
May see with clearer vision than our eyes have ever seen.
But throughout the distant ages still the carols shall grow
And the springtime of the future shall be like the spring we know.

BROTHERS ALL
We're brothers all, whatever the place,
Brothers whether in rags or lace,
Brothers all, by the good Lord's grace.

WOMAN AWARDED $326 FOR LOSS OF WEARING APPAREL

A jury in Uniontown today awarded Mrs. Mary Seabolt of Uniontown, W. Va., $326 in damages in a suit against the White Line Transfer Company of Uniontown to compensate her for the loss of wearing apparel contained in a trunk turned over to the company for delivery to a railroad station in Uniontown.

Mrs. Seabolt was on her way from Miles, Ohio, to Fairmont and stopped off to visit a sister in Uniontown. It was claimed by the plaintiff that instructions were given the driver of the transfer truck to see that the trunk was placed in the baggage room. Instead it was left on the platform and during the night was rifled. The driver claimed no special instructions had been given.

In a trial lasting about five minutes a verdict of six cents was awarded Anulo Salena of Greene county in a slander suit against Joe Suss. It was alleged Suss made uncomplimentary remarks about the plaintiff though he afterward apologized the case came to trial.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Connelville Citizens Show a Way.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an itching back, the annoyances of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Connelville citizen says:

Mrs. T. Flynn, 156, 3rd St., says: "I had an attack of kidney complaint and I was tortured with sharp pains that shot through the small of my back. I had lumbago attacks that caused my back to be lame and my kidneys were sluggish. I had dizzy spells when my head seemed to swim and specks appeared before my eyes. I purchased Doan's Kidney Pills at Beighley's Pharmacy and used two boxes. My back became strong and well and my kidneys acted regularly. I was cured and I have had no trouble for sometime."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Flynn had. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

Delousing Station Is In Use at County Jail

A delousing station is the newest addition to the Fayette county jail. The station, built out of solid cement, was thrown open for use for the first time last week, and now every prisoner who comes within the portals must undergo a complete bath and a thorough clothes steaming.

In addition to the new delousing station, prisoners are also stripping the cell rooms of much of the corroded lining and are replacing this with other covered material, while along the bottom crevices split concrete is being poured, slightly sealing the cracks. The jail now has 171 inmates.

The Doctor Was Right

When the good old family doctor was asked about baking powders, he said:

"Use Royal. It is made from Cream of Tartar and is absolutely pure. You could dissolve a couple of teaspoons of Royal in water and drink it with benefit. That's a health test mighty few baking powders can meet."

The doctor was right.

At the Theatres

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE GHOST PATROL"—Showing today at this theatre, presents Ralph Graves and Bessie Love in the stellar roles.

Army officers and policemen particularly have suffered the broken hearts, come from retirement with still in the prime of efficiency—owing to years. It is a veteran politician, retired after 30 years' service and still passionately loving his work, that "Stclair Lewis, noted novelist, made the subject of his story of "The Ghost Patrol."

George Nichols has the strongest role of his career as the kindly officer who is a big father to everyone on his beloved tonement boat. Other members of the all star cast who handle important roles effectively are Ralph Graves, former Griffith star, Bessie Love and George B. Williams.

The story is unique in that primarily dealing with a story of vital interest to older people; it also has a romantic appeal to the younger generation. Readers of "Main Street" will find delight in "The Ghost Patrol."

Wednesday and Thursday, Gladys Walton will appear in "A Dangerous Game."

THE SOISSON.

"THE DANGEROUS AGE," a First National picture, with Lewis Stone in the leading role, provides interesting entertainment today and tomorrow at this theatre. Among the spectacular features incorporated in the story are a thrilling race between an automobile and a train, (culminating in a sensational smash-up), a horse race staged especially by the producer with top horses and jockeys from the Tia Juana track in Mexico; a magnificent cafe scene in which hundreds of beautifully gowned women take part and in which was instilled all of the high-pitched gaiety, glamour, and air of extravagance known to mark the famous old Cafe de Paris, after which the set was copied; and last, but not least, a wedding scene that for beauty is said to surpass anything in the way of a nuptial celebration ever before attempted for the screen. While these 'events' add greatly to the interest value of the film, the production's real strength lies in the human interest element of the story. As he has demonstrated in such past successes as "One Clear Call," "The Child Thou Gavest Me," and "The Woman in His House," Mr. Stahl is a master when it comes to picturing the touching phases of real life, and in "The Dangerous Age," with a big dramatic theme for material, he has achieved the greatest triumph of his career.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday "Broken Chains" will be shown.

THE ORPHEUM.

"BELLA DONNA"—Pola Negri's first American made picture, which opened yesterday at this theatre for a four-day attraction is a production of unsurpassed splendor, dramatic force and popular appeal. In respect to a production, setting, photography, heart interest, character portrayals and all round artistry, this feature is one of the greatest ever presented to the amusement world. The genius of Miss Negri is at its height in this production, her first stellar appearance since arriving in this country from Europe. She is a Pola Negri you have never seen before.

"Bella Donna," is from the novel by Robert Hichens. Heretofore the picture-going public has been accustomed to seeing this charming dramatic actress in foreign pictures, but George Fitzmaurice has done wonders with this, her first American made starring vehicle. This picture puts Miss Negri in her proper setting and gives her ample opportunity for displaying her superb emotional powers. Added to this is the feature of two prominent leading men, Conway Tearle and Conrad Nagel, heading a strong supporting cast of well chosen screen players, including Lois Wilson, who is featured. Macey Kreeger and Robert Schable. The beautiful masquerade ball and street scenes in London, Cairo, and in the tents on the desert wastes will be greatly admired. The most striking scenes in the entire production are those on the houseboat on the Nile.

Friday and Saturday, Jack Holt will be seen in "Making a Man."

Ray Welsh, All-Scholastic Guard, is Elected Captain Of High School Floor Team

"Kid" Wonder of Last Season Will Head Squad of Drifters.

THREE BALLOTS TO ELECT

Raymond Welsh, the youthful guard, but a "veteran" of many hotly contested floor battles, will lead the Connelville High School basketball team next season. He was elected captain last night following two previous attempts to come to a decision on the leader. On two other ballots Welsh and LaRue were tied with four votes each. The final result gave Welsh four, LaRue three and Noland one.

Welsh is considered a remarkable basketball player. He joined the squad in the season of 1921-22 and though a mere "kid" he won his place on the varsity and won the distinction of being an all-scholastic selection in Section 3, W. P. L. A. League. During that season he was known to many as the "kid" wonder. His only previous playing experience had been in the boys' league at the Y. M. C. A. Of a backward nature it was only after some persuasion that he went "out" for the team, but once on the floor he showed his class.

During the past season Ray again won distinction for himself. One thing in which he advanced was goal shooting. Last year he hardly shot at the basket half a dozen times. He made a gain that many field goals during the season just ended.

There is an unusual competence in the race of Welsh and LaRue for honor as captain. Both played at the Y. M. C. A. together and went out for the High School team the same season. Each landed a berth but Welsh saw far more playing the first year than did LaRue, who, however, gave promise of expanding into a valuable man and he was no disappointment the past season. In the "Y" games both boys held places on the Y. M. C. A. Junior team. There Welsh displayed his ability at guard, his skillful tactics winning many games for the team. It was there also that LaRue learned to shoot, a faculty he displayed in the past season.

Finally the kid teammates came to the inevitable crossing of the paces. They were the logical choice for captain. Both displayed any desire for the position and each said he was willing for the other to have the place. Finally the squad was called together to elect. There were eight letter men and each was entitled to a vote. The First ballot was four for each man. A second was taken and the same vote was recorded.

The squad was dismissed that evening and called together again yesterday after school. The vote for Welsh remained the same but Noland got one, leaving only three for LaRue. Welsh is popular with his teammates. He realizes the responsibility of the extra load his shoulders bear and will work the harder. If Connelville High School does not better its record next season it will not be because the "kid" of former years, now the big "man" of the outfit, does not put a fitting example. Though LaRue was Welsh's opponent all rivalry will now be laid aside and "Don" will be one of his captain's chief mainstays. Welsh is a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Welsh.

SUMMER SPORTS IN ##### THEIR FULL REGALIA

Next month will see summer sports in full swing in this region. Baseball, formerly the only outdoor game that prevailed in any great extent in the city, will still be strong, but in addition to it there will be other attractions. Tennis and golf have become popular and both will be played to a great extent. Then too, High School athletics have not ended as the Fayette county interscholastic field meet is yet to come off.

The baseball season is scheduled to open here on May 13 and on that same day athletes will get their rewards for the long weeks of training as on that date the field meet will be held at the Dawson fair grounds.

Golf enthusiasts will find their entertainment at the Pleasant Valley Country Club where the new course will be used for the first time this year.

Tennis courts are also available at the club and in addition to those the Connelville Tennis Association has two on the South Side which will be kept busy throughout the summer.

Those Who Get Rich

THE United States Treasury Department finds that hundreds of millions of dollars annually are lost to the public through fraudulent enterprises of a highly speculative nature. The vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World is constantly prosecuting concerns whose advertising is misleading and untrue. Yet fraud grows rich on a credulous people and money earned in honest labor is lost forever in worthless stocks.

The history of America—its vast natural resources, the fabulous fortunes made quickly on small investments, the rapid transition of many from poverty to riches—are responsible. The blood of America is colored with the pigment of speculation. While one man wins in a lucky chance, thousands lose who never have a chance. You seldom hear of the losers.

The Perfect Husband

BY
Charles G. Norris

Author of "Salt," "Dress," etc.

Copyright by United Feature Syndicate

There was a sudden silence across the breakfast table. Lucy Valentine bent her head, and unseeing looked at her food. Her husband finished his ham and eggs deliberately, pushed away his plate, and leaning back in his chair, sucked the wind through his teeth with little smacking noises of his tongue. When he leisurely folded the morning newspaper, rose, took his hat and coat from the closet, and stalked out of the apartment without a word, sharply slamming the outer door behind him.

Lucy sat on, thinking. A look of hopelessness, almost of despair, settled upon her face. That was Tom—that was the way Tom acted; they were in for another dreary spell of his surlyness! She thought over the thirteen years of her married life; she visioned the thirteen that might follow—the twenty-six perhaps. That was to be her fate: yoked to a churl, uncouth and ill-mannered, who was insensible to how he offended her. And the thought that infuriated her most was that Tom regarded himself as a perfect husband, faithful, good, generous, devoted to her and to his home. It was true enough. In hisness, Lucy had to admit that Tom was generous; he was faithful to himself; he earned a good salary; he saved; he spent every night and even Sundays at home, and gave her an ample allowance. He considered that by this he discharged his duty as a husband, nobly, and regarded the cause of their constant bickerings, which recently he had chosen to treat in moody silence, as being entirely his wife's responsibility. He never missed an opportunity to point out to her that he had no vices; he did not even smoke. He regarded her sourly as an unreasonable, nervous woman.

Lucy reached her hand to her forehead, and murmured, "Tom was so exceedingly stupid, so self-centered, so blind. She could have forgiven his obstinacy, but she could not forgive his egotism. Every day of his life he unconsciously affronted her, and almost as frequently did so deliberately. He growled at her, sneered at her, and when crossed, shouted her into silence."

She had rebelled this morning. The incident that had precipitated the whole trouble had been of trivial consequence. It always was. Tom had said the cream was sour, and she had usually remarked that she didn't see how that could be since it was the morning's delivery, and then he had shouted at her that he guessed he knew what he was talking about, and that when he said the cream was sour, it was sour. She had said nothing in reply; she had considered his unreasonable disposition, for a time, and then in the midst of the breakfast, she had suddenly put her clasped hands down before her on the table, and said her say temperately and earnestly, urging her right to courteous treatment. She was familiar with the look of displeasure that came into his face as he listened, and reaching for an argument that would strengthen her words, she had alluded to Mr. Gray and his wife, who lived in the adjoining apartment, and that had proved the spark to his anger.

For Tom hated the Grays, hated everything about them. The suite of rooms these neighbors occupied was on the same floor as the Valentines'; an air-well separated the two establishments, and upon this source of light and ventilation a bedroom window of each apartment gave vent. Much that went in the Gray household could be heard by the Valentines, and Tom and Lucy listened to the stray words and casual conversations that went on between their unsuspecting neighbors, unabashed.

Lucy loved the way in which the Grays spoke to each other. It was so different from that to which she was accustomed. The man had extraordinary manners in his voice; it was beautifully modulated, and when he happened to address his wife as "my dear," it was like a caress. Tom chose to ridicule the little intimate things they said to one another, and to imitate Mr. Gray's manner. It made Lucy acutely uncomfortable, for she admired Mrs. Gray, was genuinely fond of her, and was in terror lest Tom should be in turn overheard.

Lucy had had her misgivings as to the wisdom of listening to her friends' confidential murmurings with her husband, but she assured herself that her motive was not unworthy curiosity. It was merely that she enjoyed with a hungry soul the manner in which this particular husband and wife spoke to one another. It was beautiful, it soothed her, it was like exquisite distant music.

"She had come to be more or less intimately acquainted with Mrs. Gray since that lady had moved next door. The two women visited one another, made frequent shopping trips together, and sometimes lunched in each other's kitchens."

Mr. Gray was an interior decorator; he was often away for several days at a time when he went to supervise the work on some rich man's country house. He returned home always with a striking present for his wife: a hanger, a pair of silver buckles, a lacquered box, or perhaps only a handful of jonquills. Frequently he took her out to dinner and the theater, and once to Lucy's positive knowledge, he had inveigled her down town in order to buy her a hat.

That had seemed to Lucy, the own husband had never brought her home unexpectedly a present in all his life. Once in a great while, she induced him to go with her to the theater or the movies. He had never commented on anything she wore, or took the smallest notice of hat or gown.

Lucy, considering her own lot and the happy circumstances that were Mrs. Gray's on this particular morning, said to herself with considerable bitterness that while she was in no danger of envying her neighbor's husband, she did long with all her soul for some degree of contentment with her own. And upon these reflections, came Alice Gray, her sweet, composed face free of worry, her serene beauty glowing today with unexpected interest.

Alonso had telephoned, she explained, that he was obliged to go to Boston; he would have to be away for several days, and he wanted his wife to accompany him. Could she arrange her affairs to be ready to leave with him on the late afternoon train?

Could she? Alice Gray's eyes danced with excitement as she caught Lucy's hand. There was nothing to detain her; she had never visited Boston, she thought it perfectly sweet of Alonso to want her to go. There was the whole day before her in which to get ready; she needed a new hat, a veil and a bag, and she urged Lucy to come with her and help her pick them out.

Lucy could not resist. She was not small enough to refuse to share this friend's pleasure, even though she felt the injustice of Alice Gray's having so much and herself so little. And the bitter feelings of the early morning were forgotten, as she hastily piled the unwashed dishes in the sink to soak, gave an indifferent glance at the unmade beds, thrust head and arms into her trim tailor skirt, and reached for the smart little yellow straw hat which she had only been able to wear once since she bought it, a month before.

A later, seated beside her radiant friend on the top of a Fifth avenue bus, the spring sunshine flooding the city, the street gay with fashionably dressed women, she caught something of Alice Gray's exhilaration.

The two women threaded the aisles of department stores, priced fabrics and exclaimed over the novelties. Alice Gray bought a charming hat, the veil, and a neat little handbag with nickel clasps, and Lucy indulged herself in a much-needed electric iron, in buoyant spirits they made a leisurely progress at a late luncheon hour to one of the smart, new French restaurants on Park avenue.
